STORM, FLOOD, AND FIRE.

[illegible] SUFFERINGS AS THE RESULT OF THE ELEMENTS.

The Great Snow-Ship Fraternity Back at Buffalo Again. A Fierce Spring Storm—Four Men Reported Frozen to Death—Fifty Miles of Track with High Wind and Lightning—A Big Blaze at Quincy.

BUFFALO, Tu., April 7.—The storm of blinding snow and fierce winds which commenced on the lakes early Saturday morning, and which for a time threatened to be a repetition of the storm of the first week in March, has subsided, and the sun is shining brightly this morning. The snow which fell during Saturday night and Sunday was driven by the wind into huge drifts, and the trains on the Lake Shore and the Buffalo, New York & Erie Railroads were delayed from twelve to twenty-four hours. The entire city is a chaos of snow-drifts, and the streets are almost impassable. Many of the business houses are closed, and the employés are engaged in digging out. The loss to the city will be very heavy. Superintendent of Police Perry, of the Buffalo, New York & Erie Railroad, estimates the loss to that road at $50,000. The Lake Shore road will lose fully as much more. The Buffalo & Lake Huron Railroad loses $10,000. The loss on the canals will be heavy. Superintendent of Canals Seaver estimates the loss to the canals at $10,000, partly sustained by the breaking down of the dam at Lockport. The loss to the shipping will be very heavy. Many vessels are ashore, and others are damaged by the storm. The propeller Ogdensburg, which left here on Saturday afternoon for Chicago, was driven ashore at Point Abino, and will be a total loss. The propeller Ontario

INCENDIARY MOVEMENTS OF A MAN DISCHARGED BY TYPERS.

Exposure of the Rioters Succeeding the Repeated Efforts to Destroy a Large Catholic Pharmacy—Absence of a Labor Union Rules Enforcement for a Period to Trying to Destroy Their Employer's Property—General Bad Feeling Exists.

New York, April 1.—[Special.]—The disturbances and excitement that exist within the last three months have reached the climax of death this morning. A fire which destroyed Catholic Pharmacy Hall, Fourth avenue and Twenty-first street, was discovered about 2 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Daniel Cassidy, one of the beats on Fourth avenue. Cassidy was attracted by the glare of the flames, and on looking around saw a man running from the building. He gave chase, but the fugitive succeeded in escaping. Cassidy then turned in the alarm, and by the time the engines arrived the flames had gained such headway that the building was doomed. The fire was discovered by Cassidy in the basement, and it is supposed that the incendiary entered the building through a window. The fire was extinguished after the building had been gutted. The loss will amount to about $50,000, and is fully covered by insurance. The building was owned by Archbishop Corrigan, and was occupied by Catholic Pharmacy Hall, a co-operative association of the clergy of the diocese. The fire is the result of the bitter feeling that has existed between the proprietor of the establishment and the Typographical union. The trouble began about three months ago, when the proprietor, Mr. Lamb, refused to employ union printers. He was then boycotted by the union, and the boycott has been kept up ever since. Lamb has been unable to get a union label for his work, and has been compelled to do all his printing at non-union offices. Several attempts have been made to destroy the building by fire, and the latest was discovered by Lamb himself about a week ago. He was passing the building when he saw a man enter the basement with a bundle of rags under his arm. He followed the man, but he escaped. Lamb then discharged the man, who, it is said, was employed by the union to watch his movements. The discharged man is known as Thomas Kelly, and is a printer by trade. He is said to have been heard to make threats against Lamb since his discharge. Lamb has been receiving numerous letters threatening his life and property, and he has been compelled to employ a watchman to guard the building. Kelly is known to be a desperate character, and has been arrested several times for assault and battery. He is also known as a dangerous man with a revolver, and has been heard to say that he would shoot Lamb on sight. Lamb is a prominent member of the Catholic Church, and is very popular among his fellow-workmen. He is also a member of the Knights of Labor, and has been a delegate to the Central Labor Union. He has been in business for himself for about three years, and has built up a large trade. He

MONDAY, APRIL 6, 1903.

The facts of the Chicagoan member of spring are displayed in the mortality of crime. There were 1,000 deaths last month, of which 50 were from pneumonia. Last month there were 800 deaths, of which thirty-seven were from consumption. That there have been unseasonably present days in the later part of February and in March alone would not have been so much cause for long faces. In an unregulated city such as this, where we lose many lives in a siege of heavy ingrowth or even in the temperature, it is never safe to call on a sunshiny month or a slightly severe one.

In one month in a Washington chamber, of commerce took more than 30,000 [illegible] Each [illegible] in that city [illegible] of the commercial [illegible] of Black [illegible] understand whether the [illegible] serving to shelter its members by playing that the [illegible] with him for two years would be found [illegible] accountability for years." This is such [illegible] experience. Capt. Maurice Kennedy is a man of considerable life and ability. He is a soldier and a gentleman, in our best sense of the terms. Those who have met in friendship can appreciate [illegible] ought to be accepted and protected.

The cashier of the First National Bank of Aurora, Minn., has gone to Canada, taking with him considerable money, and leaving behind him a large army of creditors. This little occurrence might entertain those members of the Supreme Executive Board who see in favor of the passage of a law compelling bankers to keep up their solvency. Nothing can take hold of it the wise people. This is the best the common fool of the business has been subjected to for some months to [illegible] it, or how it confined to carelessly at the corner merely because it was a "good laugher."

A commissioner of a New York meat factories is also known to make an analysis of the sweet statements of the Illinois Central Road for the last six years, to show how the gross and net earnings per mile have the number, while the mileage, capital, and debt have increased. It is suggested that these results are chiefly due to the policy of selling such locations as one road, the more having been made that may would increase the property. If the figures are correct these conclusions are far from being satisfied. In 1897 the gross mileage per mile was $8,000, and in 1902 $9,000, but the gross profit, the percentage of operating expenses rose from 70.06 to 70.09, and the net earnings per mile fell from $2,500 to $2,600.

Taken to be a mere "theorem" in Prussia, announcements in New York City. The public have telephones, many services even further, drag Sunday drawings in public places, and it is provided that household work, outdoor pets, amusements, and public holidays will take a backing in addition to the other occupations. The new city rose the pipes will of water forces, the sentence, and will add that bride and groom attending the least possible. A simpler way to [illegible] marriage is for ministers of a large number of people to march en bloc to [illegible]. Even such marriage dinners may naturally be regarded as prose. It is to be hoped that [illegible] of our kind to [illegible] have the police will, and be the need to know of New York, how will stop the nobleness. There are enough ways of adorning the people the time day of the least having getting up what are [illegible] about these marriages.

Queer how many the State Senate, [illegible] with its [illegible] Senate, a bill "to prevent the [illegible] of cattle and substituted diseased animals, and [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible]." It provides that it shall be unlawful for any [illegible], corporation, or person acting for [illegible] or any city, county, town, or village, or any [illegible] or sub-committee thereof, for any municipality to employ any man who is not a citizen, or has not declared his intention. Such employer of labor as proposed [illegible] to [illegible] a certificate with the Treasurer showing the [illegible] with the law. If any contractor violates it he loses his contract, and has to pay back whatever may have been [illegible] of those who should have been employed. It [illegible] to make [illegible] the law is not [illegible], every employer or contractor who neither [illegible] the law, employer [illegible] showing the [illegible] Springfield. It may be remembered that Gov. Yates in the inaugural [illegible] of the passage of such a measure.

One student suicide now prevailing in the Central Division of Manchester, to [illegible] deemed proved by the death of John Bright [illegible] to be the most eccentric since the [illegible] Gladstone of 1886. The [illegible] [illegible] Liberal after the Redistribution [illegible] of 1885. That year Mr. Bright, who was strongly opposed by the bill on the Irish question by the Ministry on account of the support of [illegible], was elected over Lord Randolph Churchill, who declared. Two members that would have been elected, by a majority of 772. The figures were:

Bright [illegible]	6,927
[illegible]	6,155

Mr. Bright knew from the Tribunite in 1885 that the collection was inaugurated. He did not see him elected on the Liberal electorate for that division. He is supported by the Conservative Review of Liberals. The Today Imperial Chronicle opens on Mancunian, and they have no greater interest to fight Mr. Bright. They evidently feel that the Tribune has misled in believing, however, Bright will get the two Tory seats, the Conservative vote, and some Liberal votes on account of his views. The Manchester candidate, William Hugues Bright, is a son of John Bright's [illegible] in the great [illegible] movement of 1885 and 1886. [illegible] Bright. The younger Bright is a great [illegible] with most [illegible] that brought Bright.
